

The Tell-Tale Heart (Annotated)

The Tell-Tale Heart is a short story by Edgar Allan Poe (1809-1849). First published in 1843, it is a masterpiece in the study of the psychology of guilt. The narrator suffers from a disease (nervousness) which causes an over-acuteness of the senses. He lives with an old man who has a clouded, pale, blue vulture-like eye. The narrator is so obsessed by this eye that he plots to murder the old man. For seven nights, he opens the door of the old mans room, in order to shine a sliver of light onto the evil eye. However, the old mans vulture eye is always closed, making it impossible to do the work. On the eighth night, the old man awakens. The ebook contains a long note on Poe's life and work written by French poet Charles Baudelaire (1821-1867) in 1852. The essay was translated in English by Henry Curwen (1845-1892).
